

Project Management

Project managers are in high demand with nearly 2.2 million new project-oriented job roles expected to be created each year across the globe through 2027, according to the Project Management Institute*. On average, project managers with a Project Management Professional (PMP) certification earn a 20% higher salary than those without a PMP certification. At Directions Training, we'll help you get trained and certified as a PMP.

PMP CERTIFICATION:

The Project Management Professional (PMP) certification is the most important industry-recognized certification for project managers. PMPs are seen leading projects in nearly every country and, unlike other certifications that focus on a specific geography or domain, the PMP certification is recognized globally. As a PMP, you have the flexibility to work in virtually any industry in any location. The PMP certification signifies that you speak and understand the global language of project management and connects you to a community of professionals worldwide.

PMP CERTIFICATION PREREQUISITES:

Secondary degree + 7,5000 hours leading and directing projects

- or -

Four-year degree + 4,500 hours leading and directing projects

WHAT OUR STUDENTS ARE SAYING:

“The instructor was both personable and knowledgeable, and always took time with us whenever we had questions or comments. Absolutely excellent in their presentation, they really brought context to the material and how it could work in our real world environment.”
-Vincent. V. (May 2018)

“I enjoyed that this was not just a "read from the slides" training. There was plenty of actual teaching. Appreciated the notes on subjects that were encountered on the exams as well.”
-Gabriel S. (July, 2018)

“The most knowledgeable instructor I've trained under in years. Very nicely presented.”
-Terry S. (August, 2018)

*Source: https://www.pmi.org/-/media/pmi/documents/public/pdf/learning/job-growth-report.pdf?sc_lang_temp=en directions

Training Successful Professionals Since 1991